

Dear Expectant Parent(s),

Hello! We want to start off by telling you a joke...why do ducks have feathers? To cover their butt quacks! Haha! So obviously we're not good at jokes, but what we hope to be good at is the best, fun, and loving parents to a child. Though we're silly, we understand this is a very tough and emotional time for you. We're Brad and Kayla and let us tell you a little about ourselves.

We met each other when Brad was working (Brad works for a telecommunications company- so he connects people with phone, internet and tv) to come and set me (Kayla) up with internet in my apartment. We got to talking and realized we knew a lot of the same people/friends. After that we would bump into each other and we became friends. When we both became single, and with Brad trying to grab my attention since I kept him in the "friend zone" did I finally realize all I wanted was a good guy and here he was, so we started dating. Our first date was to the movies to watch "Trolls." Brad proposed not even a year into our relationship and we have been happily married ever since!

I (Brad) grew up in Montana which consisted of my parents, me, and my younger sister. We spent many weekends at my grandparent's place which we call the cabin and is located right next to a warm spring's creek so the water temperature stays a constant 68°. Us grandkids practically lived in the water and since I'm the oldest of the grandkids was the one to teach my younger cousins how to swim. I love to snowmobile, archery hunt, watch Dallas Cowboys football and hang out with our two dogs (Bentley and Cash). I grew up in a very close knitted family so live only a mile away from my parents and my sister/brother in law live about two hours away. My sister is expecting their first child and we just recently did a gender reveal party to find out I'll be an uncle to a new nephew!

I (Kayla) also grew up in Montana which consisted of my parents, older half sister and brother (they would go to California off/on to their dad), me and my younger brother. My childhood consisted of spending lots of time at the family ranch in the barn where I helped my grandma feed baby bum lambs, trying to catch the wild barn kittens, and riding my Shetland pony named Sunshine. I love to read, hike, anything that involves water, crafting, Disney movies and decorating the house for the holidays especially Halloween. I work for two different dentist offices as a dental hygienist. My parents live only about 35-miles away, and we have three nephews from my older siblings. My younger brother/sister in law just recently had their first child and I'm so happy to be an auntie to a new niece! I finally get to shop for cute girlie things☺.

We live in our dream place...THE MOUNTAINS! We are so lucky to have Brad's dad live so close and be such a handy man. Our first project we remodeled was the bathroom and turned out so gorgeous. Our house is homey but do have future projects/remodeling we still want to complete, plus hopefully add a big shop for all of Brad's toys. It takes us about 20-minutes to commute to where we work, so enjoy getting to see all the beauty and wildlife every day.

We could write this letter and brag on and on and on and on about our two "furkids" Bentley and Cash, but we'll spare you and try to keep it short (winky face). Bent is a Gordon setter and will be seven years old. He's our antisocial boy and if he can just be outside where he can sit and watch, then he's one happy boy! Cash is a mini Australian Shepherd and is five years old. As for Cash, he's our constant needs attention and wants to be right on your lap, so we can just say he's a mama's boy. Brad's parents have dogs too, so the boys get to spend lots of time with their dogs too. But their favorite place also is the cabin where they can jump in the creek and play all day long with Brad's little cousins!

We hope this letter helped share a little bit about ourselves and personalities. We love to laugh and always have a good time. We're praying for you and hope you find peacefulness in finding your path. This is such a beautiful adventure for all of us. We feel that even if a child doesn't look like us or have the same interests as us, doesn't mean we won't love our child unconditionally and build a loving home. Thank you for reading our letter and we hope to one day meet you.

With our hearts,
Brad & Kayla
